Going for the gold

Consortium's enrolment doubles over 1987

By Steve Fletcher

The Pembina Educational Consortium is in the throes of unprecedented growth that has already more than doubled its student population over last year.

Not including the recent addition of Rocky Mountain House, the consortium's enrolment has jumped from 225 students in 1987 to 540 so far in 1988.

"It's the steepest growth curve we've ever been in," says executive director Joe MacLellan. "I really can't explain it, but we're not complaining, for sure."

One of the biggest forces behind the growth has been the increased financial support from outside sources such as Alberta Career Development and Employment, Canada Employment and private business and industry, says MacLellan. The annual grant from the institution's chief source, Alberta Advanced Education, was also up slightly.

However, funding still falls far short of the demand for the institution's courses, MacLellan says.

"We could probably go as much as 300 more students...if we had the program funds."

Pembina's sizable student body grows even larger when the 120 registrants who enrolled at the new office in Rocky Mountain House are added to the roster.

The office opened its doors in early August and MacLellan is already predicting a bright future for the consortium's most recent expansion attempt.

"I see a lot of potential," he noted. "We have had excellent cooperation from the towns and from Red Deer College."

The enrolment boom has been highlighted by the return of the popular nursing assistant program, which was revived

First-ever budget retains mill rate

By Steve Fletcher

The Branson municipal district unveiled its first budget last week at a special meeting of council.

A highlight of the day-long session was the announcement to retain last year's mill rate.

Residential ratepayers will pay 18.71 mills this year, including the school requisition, which will mean an overall decrease of 4.3 per cent. Farmland ratepayers will pay a total of 19.33, a 4.0 per cent decline from the previous year.

Electric power and pipeline ratepayers, however, face an overall increase of 14.6 per cent in their mill rate — caused largely by an unexpected surge in this sector's requisition payments (see related story in this issue).

The 1988 budget, which covers only the last six months of the year because of the MD's July 1 incorporation, estimates total revenue at $1,294,799. Council is hoping for a surplus this year of roughly $1.5 million, which will be placed in operating reserve.

The budget was based on an area assessment of $364,527,295 — the vast majority (nearly $270 million) being powerline, pipeline and AGT transmission assessments.

Municipal manager John Eriksson, who prepared the budget along with finance director Bill Fleming, said the whole process "was a lot of fun" despite the painful experience of losing the budget four times in the computer.

"The first one is a 'best guess.' They get better...however! Next year will be unique as well because of the expanding boundaries and the fact that we'll be dealing with an entire year," Eriksson said.

Budget highlights include: $45,000 for MD building improvements; $43,500 for computer upgrading; $177,300 for general administration costs; $73,400 for council expenses; $1,372,500 for public works equipment; $400,000 for the Drayton Sports Centre; and $44,800 for furniture.

Council also approved a $1,000 expenditure toward the purchase of a "small" paper shredder. "There are some budget papers that I absolutely refuse to throw in the garbage," said finance director Fleming.

Tax and assessment notices started being mailed out last Friday. Open houses will be held at the MD office Oct. 18 and 19 with assessors in attendance.

Sewer charges announced

Poplar Ridge residents will soon face a bi-monthly sewer charge of $14.50.

The Branson MD council agreed to initiate the charges at a council meeting last week.

The County of Parkland had actually conceived the idea but had failed to carry it out.

Because of the long delay, the MD council decided to forgo charges up to the end of August.

Students in the consortium-sponsored secretarial word processing program.

This year after spending the previous season on hiatus as a cost-cutting measure.

A total of 14 students are currently registered in the program. "We squeezed in all we could," said MacLellan, who added it was important to keep the class size small so that quality is maintained.

MacLellan also said three researchers have been hired on a temporary basis to follow-up the consortium's recent needs-assessment survey.

The researchers will update demand for educational programs in the area as well as pursue more market information, MacLellan pointed out.

Rumors persist that a development on the corner of Hwy 22 and the Poplar Ridge Road could be just around the corner.

The property is owned by Dave Ponte. The location is immediately east of the old Dome Petroleum office.

Recreation director Paul Nielsen plans to meet with the slow-pitch league executive this week to discuss some of their concerns. The 46-team league that contributed $2,000 in user fees would like to see some improvements to the playing fields.

After an 11-month delay since they purchased Mike's Food Store, heavy equipment and men moved onto the site last week to start construction of a new 7-Eleven convenience store.

While the town has experienced difficulty in gathering donations for their $1.5-million Drayton Sports Centre, the MD of Brazeau came to their rescue last week. A contribution of $480,000 for the facility is included in the MD's budget.

A deaf man from California was scheduled to appear in Evansburg court yesterday (Monday) morning in answer to first degree murder charges following the death of a Gairford woman.

The badly beaten body of Evelyn Marie Guest, 39, a mother of one, was found by her husband lying on the living room floor of their home last Thursday. The suspect was arrested without incident Friday afternoon in Valleyview.

The Firemen's Ball was held last Saturday.

Can Old Man Winter be far off? With the number of leaves falling off the trees at Birchwood Village Greens, it's a grim reminder to golfers to keep putting around if they want to get in a few more games.

$17,000 stolen in oilpatch theft

This AMT 600 was among the items stolen at an oil lease site near Cynthia.

RCMP are seeking the public's assistance in solving a "considerably large" oilfield theft last week near Cynthia, said Cpl. Tim Vatamanick.

Vatamanick estimated about $17,000 in equipment was stolen during the theft, which occurred sometime during the night of Sept. 26 at an oil lease site about 10 miles northeast of Cynthia in the Texaco oilfield.

Included among the stolen goods were two John Deere All Materials Transport (AMT) units.

The fact the five wheelers have only been on the market for a year makes them easily identifiable, added Vatamanick.

The thieves broke into the field office at the site and stole various tools and oil, an electric water pump and accessories. Despite the high estimated value of the stolen goods, the theft is not the largest of its kind so far in 1988. About $60,000 worth of equipment was stolen from an oilfield site in a theft roughly three months ago.

Oilfield crime is traditionally one of the major areas of concern for rural detachments like Drayton Valley, said Vatamanick.

He estimated the detachment receives at least five complaints a month about oil patch thefts.

Anyone with information regarding oilfield theft should call CrimeStoppers at 1-800-922-TIPS or contact the local RCMP detachment.

Foster Parents Plan 'Makes you feel good' says local couple

By Belinda Atkinson

A local couple have adopted two children they may never see.

Art and Betty Frey may never touch them in at night or read them a bedtime story.

But both agree that becoming foster parents to two Third World children has been a rewarding experience. "It makes you feel good and yet you're doing a minimal amount when you really think about it," Betty said.

All you're doing is sending money whereas the Foster Parents Plan of Canada people are working right there," she explained.

The Freys decided to become foster parents last December as part of a Christmas present to each other.

Their children - Tammy, 18, Sarah, 6, and Adam, 3 - were given their choice of countries and decided on Kenya and Honduras.

After paper work and correspondence, the Freys received word they would sponsor Mwanjuma Mwasaughu, 9, and Carlos Quintanilla, 3.

Both children have two parents, attend school and are reportedly healthy.

Mwanjuma is the daughter of a Kenyan farmer who supports his wife and four daughters with $312 US per year.

"We got a letter from her when she was just starting summer holidays," Betty said. "She said she was busy hauling water and our kids couldn't get over that."

Carlos is the son of an Hon-

Mwanjuma Mwasaughu

durian farmer who supports his wife and six children with $45 per month.

The Freys received a picture from Carlos but any communication is done through Sao Pedro's community leader.

They explained that Carlos is part of a group plan whereby money is collected from numerous sponsors to fund a village dam.

"In Sao Pedro if it is personally handed out it doesn't do nearly as much good as it would for the group," Betty said.

They have heard the complaints that a lot of money goes to administration rather than the children. But Art said they looked into three or four organizations and found only 10 to 15 per cent didn't reach the kids.

Carlos Quintanilla

Art and Betty Frey with their youngest son, Adam.

"I think it's human nature to be very skeptical," Betty said. "But there comes a time when you just have to trust other people."

She said the most important thing is that you're doing what you think is right and getting satisfaction.

Landowners should go all the way

In some areas the hunting season has started.

And, as in past years, we can expect a rash of complaints, most of the time from innocent bystanders.

One of the biggest complaints last year was hunters trespassing on private land. Complaints of this nature kept fish and wildlife officers in Evansburg and Drayton Valley on the road almost constantly.

Despite all the complaints we didn't seem to hear what charges were laid or fines levied.

One of the main reasons for this, that despite complaints a lot of the landowners had second thoughts, and the charges were dropped.

If a landowner is going to file a complaint and get the fish and wildlife officer to catch the offender, sometimes red-handed, they should be serious enough to go through with the charge - all the way to the courts if necessary.

If hunters continue to trespass and landowners call in the authorities, then have second thoughts, this inconvenience will never be stopped.

It will only be when a hunter who is trespassing on private land is handed a huge fine, and it's made public, that this practice will cease, or at least slow down.

If you see hunters trespassing on your land and your first instinct is to call the fish and wildlife officer, make sure you want to go all the way with the charge. It's one thing for the officer to write the ticket, but they need landowners to support them when it comes time to go to court.

Gas prices down at some local stations

If you're one of those local motorists annoyed with the high price of gas (it was 42.9 before some stations lowered it to 41.4), you should be aware that prices are higher elsewhere.

During a recent trip to British Columbia, we collected some of the prices at the pumps. Here's what we found:

|                    |      |
|--------------------|------|
| D. Thompson Resort | 42.9 |
| Field              | 46.9 |
| Golden             | 39.5 |
| Revelstoke         | 49.4 |
| Three Valley Gap   | 46.0 |
| Salmon Arm         | 48.9 |
| Armstrong          | 47.9 |
| Vernon             | 48.9 |
| Kelowna            | 46.1 |
| Peachland          | 44.9 |
| Penticton          | 46.9 |

Frankly Speaking

By Frank Ryan

If you're heading out to B.C., our advice is to have enough gas to make Golden, fill up there then find the best price you can. It's likely to be a lot higher than local prices.

Gas prices in town have been a big item on coffee row. And they should be, especially when one considers gas prices in nearby communities.

It's encouraging to see some local stations lowered their prices after Councillor Dave Lundberg expressed his concerns. However, operators could go one step further and take down the 42.9 price advertised on the abandoned Shell station on 50th Street.

Looking for a little exercise?

Every Tuesday evening between 8 and 11 p.m., drop-in volleyball is held for adults in the Frank Maddock high school gym.

You don't have to be an expert, just someone who may have played the game in the past and is looking for a night out, a little exercise, a chance to meet others, and a little fun.

As a participant I can honestly tell you there are some pretty good players, but they are usually outnumbered by the likes of me, just out for the fun and exercise.

Patrollers take to streets

By Belinda Atkinson

Crosswalk patrol programs are now in full swing at two local elementary schools with a third to begin this week.

Interactions surrounding St. Anthony's school are being guarded by 18 students who volunteer time in the morning, at noon and after school.

Evergreen's patrol program will begin when consent letters are completed by the parents of the 30 children who have expressed interest.

"There was no shortage of volunteers this year," said Scott Tumbach, organizer and Grade 6 teacher at St. Anthony's.

He said the children receive a few incentives such as coke and pizza but the major reward is the self-esteem gained from their contribution.

Tammy Stafford, Evergreen's organizer, was very pleased with the volunteer turnout and, although numbers have not been finalized, she said 30 crosswalk guards would be perfect to ensure safety.

The town has hired an adult, Dwan Elliott, for the busy intersection in front of Eldorado elementary that crosses 50 Ave. and 50 St.

Town secretary Robin Winbourne said the children's ages and heavy traffic have made it necessary to place an adult crosswalk guard at the intersection for the past eight years.

Elliott, who is also employed as the town's animal control officer, said he's already seen a number of speeding vehicles.

"The bulk of the problem is motorists," he said. "If they'd slow down it would be okay."

Aside from speeding vehicles, the 1988 school year has been free of accidents so far.

Requisition rise shocks MD council

School requisitions exceeding $4 million sent shock waves throughout the Brazeau municipal district office last week.

The MD discovered it will pay out $4,370,137 in total requisitions this year — a 23 per cent jump when compared to the 1987 County of Parkland mill rate.

Municipal manager John Eriksson said he plans on taking up the large increase with provincial authorities in an attempt to get "an explanation for it and hopefully some relief, if possible."

Total requisitions have been set at $5,970,137 when the provincial school foundation payment is included.

MD officials blame the surprising figure on a combination of an assessment-gauging device known as the Ramsey Formula and the fact that the district must fund three different school jurisdictions this year.

"It's a windfall for all other municipalities," said Reeve Henry Rondeau, who noted the total outlay "far exceeds the average requisition in the province."

The municipal district expects things to return to normal next year, when it will be required to pay requisitions to only the new Twin Rivers school division and the Drayton Valley separate school district, said Rondeau.

The Ramsey Formula was a culprit in the high requisition, he added, pointing out that the formula takes into account pipeline assessment — the Brazeau's biggest ratepayer sector.

Ironically, residential ratepayers will see an 8.4 per cent decline in their requisition mill rate, as will owners of farm land.

Electric power and pipeline ratepayers have had their requisition payments increase 33.3 per cent over the previous year.

Despite the substantial rise, Eriksson said a 30 per cent hike in requisition payments was average for pipeline ratepayers across Alberta.

The bottom line is only a 14.5 per cent increase for the pipeline sector in terms of the entire mill rate for 1988, he added.

Quite a year for recruit

By Steve Fletcher
It's been a year of changes for Grant Gingerysty.

The 25-year-old Montreal native finished university, joined the RCMP, moved to Regina, was posted in Drayton Valley, and — just last week — got married.

He says he's in the recovery stage now and expects to be a member of the local detachment for the usual three-to-five year stint. Gingerysty believes he's right where he's always wanted to be.

"I always aspired to be one (an RCMP officer) when I was younger," he says. "I felt that it would be an admirable job so I decided to give it my best shot."

After attending Concordia University in Montreal the still has one course left before he earns a commerce degree. Gingerysty was arrested as a recruit and showed up at Depot Division in Regina last February to begin six months of intensive academic and physical training.

He says he soon became accustomed to the 16-hour days and "semi-military" at atmosphere.

"I enjoyed it a lot and made a lot of good friends. It was difficult but you saw satisfaction from it because you thought you were doing something worthwhile."

Gingerysty, bilingual and a strident sports enthusiast, is currently doing "a bit of everything" at his first posting.

Const. Grant Gingerysty is fresh from recruit training in Regina.

"They like to keep you busy," he says. "It's a bonding detachment."

He adds that his wife, Lasha, a qualified nurse and a former Montreale, is also looking forward to her stay in town.

His only regret lies in the hockey realm.

A good friend of hockey centre Mike Krushelnyski, he was expecting free tickets to Edmonton Oilers games. Krushelnyski, however, was traded this summer to Los Angeles as part of the Gretzky deal.

Explosions stir residents

A sweet-gas well just northwest of town caused a stir among residents last week.

The Euron Oil Canada Ltd. well, located about one mile north of the Amoreo building in Poplar Ridge, generated explosive noises on Friday. The well, however, was being filled with a carbon dioxide gas in order to enhance production, said Euron consultant Jock Hutchinson. The explosion was the result of the carbon dioxide coming in contact with pockets of natural gas.

"Residents have nothing to worry about," added Hutchinson.

son. "It's a regular operation."

The RCMP received about four calls in 15 minutes on Friday morning from residents fearing a blow-out, said Cpl. Tim Vatanianuk. He added the RCMP investigated the complaints and advised the company to warn area residents about work at the well.

Hutchinson said the carbon dioxide procedure should be completed early this week. He said a test of the well, which will probably take six or seven days, will have similar noisy effects.

Three businesses were the victims of break-ins on the same night last week.

Dimensions Hair Salon, Johnson Realty and Insurance Ltd. and Dr. Anderson's dental clinic were all broken into sometime during the night of Sept. 25.

A small amount of cash was stolen from each business.

RCMP are investigating.

Official trustee optimistic about new division's future

Rene Marrinier is one-quarter of the way through his mandate to establish the Twin Rivers school division, and so far everything is progressing well.

"It appears to be a straightforward operation...there are no major issues at the moment," says Marrinier, an Edmonton resident who was appointed the official trustee for the new Drayton Valley area school division Sept. 1.

Marrinier has until January to create the new organization. At that time elections will be held to create a board of trustees and the new division will officially become an entity. Marrinier's appointment ends immediately following the swearing-in of the new board.

Currently, schools within the boundaries of Twin Rivers have contracted their educational services out to the County of Parkland.

Marrinier says his priorities are to establish an administrative office and begin the process of hiring staff.

"It still looks like a viable operation," he adds. "It's a growing system — all of the schools have more students than last year."

Appointed at the same time as Marrinier was an advisory committee, which was set up to provide local input into the creation of the new school division.

Members include: Henry Roudess (rural Drayton Valley), Carolyn Strand (Breton), Cecil Dawkins (Drayton Valley), Vi Helm (Drayton Valley) and Wesley Tweedie (Lindale).

Marrinier's part-time position allows him a flexible schedule: his time in Drayton Valley varies from one to five days a week, depending on what has to be done.

A former trustee on the Northlands board, Marrinier is optimistic about the future of the youngest school division in Alberta.

"I'm impressed with the possibilities of the division...I think it has the potential to deliver high quality education for students in the area," he says.

New school district has real potential, says Rene Marrinier.

Teacher likes fun atmosphere

Lindale's new Resource Room teacher knows the risks of becoming too involved with her students' problems.

The special demands of learning disabled students can be very draining, especially when combined with two days per week as one of the school's kindergarten teachers.

Gail Reles admits it's a challenge but says she's able to separate work from her personal life for one reason. "Maybe I can separate myself because I know I've done my best," she says after much contemplation.

Reles uses similar teaching methods in both areas. She tries to create a fun atmosphere in order to maintain students' interest.

In the Resource Room, where she teaches grades 1 to 3, students are allowed to choose their own reading topics such as cars, space or food.

In the kindergarten, Reles provides a large variety of events — some routine, some spontaneous — to avoid boredom.

The Regina native believes everyone has a special ability and this variety helps everyone, whether he be six years old or 15, to determine where their special ability lies.

Librarian says TV influential

Marion Wilson

"There are some extremely bright children," says Marion Wilson. "A lot of them come into school more aware of books and reading."

But she says they don't "bloom" like children did when their first interaction with the outside world was school.

Wilson guesses that TV has influenced children so they are no longer excited by the things that children once were.

The Drayton Valley woman has also noticed other changes she attributes to mothers returning to work.

"There are more severe emotional and discipline problems," she says, adding she doesn't like to judge.

"They have to be more independent emotionally and stronger because they don't have (as much) support," she explains.

Wilson stopped teaching for 17 years to raise her three children and says they were the most rewarding years of her life.

She said she never missed being home after school when they were excited about their day and eager to talk. "If you miss it, that special time is gone."

Lindale's new librarian has noticed some major changes in children in the last 17 years.

YMCA honors Jamie Platz's memory

The parents of Jamie Platz were in Edmonton recently to participate in a groundbreaking ceremony for the Jamie Platz Family YMCA.

Larry and Gail Platz of Buck Creek were also presented with a plaque from the YMCA to commemorate their son's courage during a virtually life-long battle against cancer.

Jamie died last year at the age of 12. Edmonton Oilers owner Peter Pocklington donated $1 million to assist in the building of the YMCA, located at 178 Street and 69 Avenue. Jamie helped inspire the Oilers to their second Stanley Cup in 1985.

Meet the teachers cont'd

Tammie Stafford

Evergreen's new teacher says Grade 6 is the perfect age group.

"They're more independent than younger kids! but they're not grown up yet," says Tammie Stafford. "Once they're in junior high they're too grown up."

she says. "And I like kids." The Nanton native also prefers teaching a variety of subjects which she wouldn't be able to do in a higher grade.

She tries to make each subject "child-centred" whereby assignments are developed according to students' interests.

Stafford says it's not possible in every subject, such as math, but in most cases students brainstorm and choose their own topics.

As she learns the ins and outs of her first full-time teaching position, the recent U of A graduate says she may not teach Grade 6 forever.

"It's too easy to get in a rut," she says. But for now, Stafford is contented with a class that's "not too young and not too old."

Maria Gigliotti

Few students in St. Anthony's French program are at the same stage of learning and that's the way their new teacher likes it.

"It's more difficult," says Maria Gigliotti. "The kids are at such different levels. But I really enjoy it."

She says the challenge of teaching kids with varied backgrounds and training makes her job diverse and exciting.

Aside from Grades 6 to 9 French, the Red Deer native teaches Grade 9 science.

When asked which subject she'd rather teach, Gigliotti says, "It's hard to say. I don't have a preference. I enjoy them all."

She does prefer teaching younger children who, she says, like to participate and learn.

Gigliotti received her degree at the University of Alberta, substitute taught in Red Deer and now moves into her first full-time teaching position.

Dave Elwood

Dave Elwood finds the variety of his first full-time position.

The newcomer to H.W. Pickup junior high calls himself a "physical education guy" first, but also enjoys teaching math and language arts.

"It's a nice change to be in the classrooms and then the gym," says the Mayerthorpe native.

Juggling between his class load and extra-curricular school sports is no easy task. Elwood says he takes a lot of work home but he adds, "that's a easy to do in your first year."

He's also introduced a wrestling team and although he's still teaching the basics, Elwood plans to have 35 students ready for the provincial championships in February.

"I hope we do well in the province," he says, adding that the school has a lot of good athletes.

When asked what, above all, she wants to instill in her students, Eldorado's new Grade 1 teacher has an immediate answer.

"Everyone has something they do well. I want to focus on what they do well rather than their difficulties," says Jeanine Lewis.

In doing this, the Lethbridge native says students develop a positive self-image early on when they're more influenced by teachers.

Lewis says students have more fun when you concentrate on the positive and, hopefully, they will develop a life-long interest in learning.

Jeanine Lewis

"It's a challenge," she says. "And I like challenges."

Lewis graduated from the University of Lethbridge in 1987. After a short trip to Scandinavia she began substitute teaching in Lethbridge.

Whether they're studying math, language arts or science, the lessons will focus around one particular subject.

"It helps keep them focused on one area and broadens their interests," she says, adding that she'll switch themes every month to six weeks to keep it interesting.

Kurylo brings her thematic theory right from the University of Alberta where she recently received her teaching degree.

The Drayton Valley native considers herself very lucky to find a teaching position in her home town, under the guidance of principal Chris Kelly who was once her Grade 4 teacher.

Now that she's home again, Kurylo plans to stay. She enjoyed Edmonton but prefers living in a "closer knit community."

Forum set for Oct. 24

The chamber of commerce is optimistic as all-candidates forum set for Drayton Valley will create a lot of attention.

The chamber-sponsored forum will take place Oct. 24 at the Rec Plex. The doors open at 9:15 p.m. There is no charge.

Candidates from the six parties vying for the Yellowhead riding in the next federal election should be in attendance, including Incent Joe Clark, Reform Preston Manning, NDP's Mariel Stanley-Venne and Liberal John Higgerty.

Chamber president Grant Monseur says the format will involve a two-hour question and answer period. A moderator is also expected to be announced soon.

Monseur says he's hoping an election will be called soon so the forum would occur during the latter part of the campaign.

"This riding is probably one of the most volatile," he noted. "It seems most people are uncommitted one way or the other. The forum should generate a lot of interest."

QCTV will be on hand to tape the forum.

Meanwhile, youth peace group president Trevis Sonson says her organization is attempting to hold a similar forum in Drayton Valley to deal specifically with foreign affairs.

She said the forum has tentatively been set for the morning of Oct. 25. So far only Clark's attendance has been confirmed.

Local boom keeping builders buzzing

The building boom which is obvious in Drayton Valley is keeping custom home builders busy.

At least that's the opinion of two builders.

Les Jones of Gest Construction calls the situation in Drayton Valley a good healthy climate.

Last year Gest built 22 new homes in Drayton Valley including 15 over the winter. As of last week they had nine on the go and were planning a couple more basements. They hope to have these closed in before Old Man Winter hits.

So far, Jones says Gest Construction has been able to keep up with the demand.

Rick Nordstrom, president/owner of Nordal Homes says his firm has already met their expectations for 1988.

"We've been very busy the past couple of years," he told The Western Review.

Nordal currently employs between 25 and 30 people, so it's important to have enough work for them to do.

Nordstrom already has a lot of work booked up for the spring.

Asked where he thought the new home owners in Drayton Valley were coming from, Nordstrom replied that some were transfers and other people were upgrading their way of life.

Like Gest, Nordal Homes

admitted the housing boom the town has experienced the past couple of years was keeping them busy.

Both firms said most of their new home construction was in the Aspenview/Norview areas.

Paving tenders soon

Tenders will be called for a major paving project in the Ma-Me-O Beach area.

Behind the Bench

With Frank Ryan

News of the Ben Johnson incident hit me like the Wayne Gretzky/Los Angeles Kings trade or the shooting of former U.S. president John Kennedy.

I was shocked, to say the least. And hoped what I was hearing would prove to be incorrect.

Why would he take drugs?

That was the question asked by my 11-year-old son.

No one in our family is track and field oriented. But Ben Johnson changed all that. We sat in front of the TV on that historic night, to see him blaze down the track in record fashion.

I even jumped out of the chair, yelling "Go Ben, Go!" It was so unusual for me to do that, the dog jumped up, ears alert, wondering what was happening to cause such a stir.

But four days later I was deeply disturbed with what I was hearing. As I wondered that night, and I'm still wondering, was every possible angle investigated by the authorities including the Canadian delegation, before such drastic actions were taken?

DRUGS are serious business.

I tend to agree with a handful of sports people who are pushing for random sampling. The way it is now, the athletes are warned in advance when and where the tests will be done.

It's like the RCMP announcing in the paper where they are going to set up their check stops or radar traps. Why not just do it?

As a parent I'm concerned about the wide spread use of drugs. We have to be, whether it's in life or sports.

It's encouraging to see my 11-year-old son take such an interest, and at the same time, know the dangers involved.

*****

The NHL regular season starts Thursday.

Who else but the Calgary Flames for first overall and the Stanley Cup?

But don't count out the minnow Wayne Gretzky Oilers.

Wouldn't it be nice to see Pittsburgh finally make the playoffs?

Quest for Iron Man mantle

By Steve Fletcher
Les Sigal of Drayton Valley successfully defended his title last Saturday as the Iron Man of Oil Town.

Sigal completed the triathlon circuit — swimming (one km), biking (10 km) and running (5 km) — in a time of 53 minutes 54 seconds, shaving five minutes off last year's winning pace.

Meanwhile, Terry Bills collected her first individual trophy in the event, earning top spot in the women's category with a time of 1:02:37. Bills' previous triathlon experience had been in the women's team category.

In the men's team event, a combination of Michael Smeland's swimming skills, Pat Robinson's biking abilities and Scott MacLock's running endurance earned them first place in this category where all competitors were under the age of 18.

The lone women's team entrant — comprised of Charlene Jenkins, Pat Cameron and Deanna Walker — completed the circuit in 1:17:22.

In the junior division, youngsters Kevin Oscar, Jonathan Satterlund and Jason Muthrocks combined their talents in out-clock all rivals.

Les Sigal

Finally, the father and sons team of Loren Regner, David Regner and Tim Regner came first in the family category.

"It went really smoothly this year," says Laurette Satterlund, organizer of this year's Iron Man of Oil Town Triathlon. Each year it gets smoother.

The triathlon, sponsored for four years now by the Neptus Swim Club, garnered about 40 competitors on Saturday morning.

Satterlund said the event usually draws about the same number every year, although the size of each category varies substantially.

This year, for example, she noted a strong increase in the number of participants in the women's individual competition.

No injuries...just casualties

By Belinda Atkinson
Frank Maddock high school held a mini Olympics last week that was so true to life one might have thought they were in Seoul.

The games began Monday with a short opening ceremony in which 17 competing countries also referred to as classes.

Both physics 10 and physical education 10 boycotted the week long event but it is not known whether their reasons were political or lachrymose.

Throughout the week amateur athletes shared the flame, reached for the gold, fought for the title, did one for the gutter and tried to be all they could be.

Competition was tough. Some had trained weeks to manoeuvre little red wagons and tricycles.

Riots almost broke out Thursday when an egg relay got out of hand and left more than a few competitors with egg on their faces.

Rumors circulated Friday that a number of the thumb wrestling athletes had been caught using steroids and were banned from the sport forever.

Neither athletes nor doctors were available for comment but the latest reports indicate that one athlete had sold exclusive interview rights to a newspaper in West Leno.

Aside from rumor and in nuendo, the FMHS XXIV Olympiad was considered an internationally unrecognized success.

Anti-terrorist officers Mark Elert and Merle Darragh said the games were relatively calm with only a few minor terrorist attacks.

We had no injuries...just casualties from the people we shot, said Elert as he blew the smoke from his Aero 1 anti-terrorist gun.

Drayton Sports Centre opens in 11 days

Paul Nielsen is anxiously awaiting for the Drayton Sports Centre to be completed.

The new $15 million centre located in West Valley Park will be open for public use on Saturday, Oct. 15.

Nielsen, the town's recreation director and project manager, says he had hoped to have the rink open earlier, but it was decided at a site meeting to delay it a week.

The grand opening has been set for Sunday, Nov. 6. The ice plant was scheduled to be turned on today (Tuesday). "It will run for a few days to get the bugs out before we start making ice," Nielsen says.

Actual ice making is expected to begin during the Thanksgiving long weekend.

Crews were busy at the rink last week installing the sound and sprinkler systems and fine-tuning the ice plant. Benches in the dressing rooms were being installed and painters were working throughout the building.

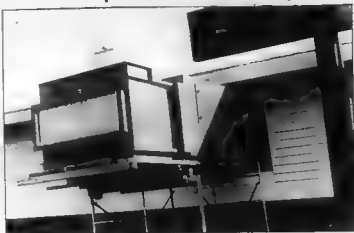

One of the major jobs left to do as of last Thursday afternoon, was the installation of the lights over the ice surface. This work had been held up due to delivery of the fixtures from Montreal.

The concession will be operated by the same people who booked after the facility in the old rink for the past two years. One change will see a mechanical skate sharpener instead of the hands-on approach.

Originally the grand opening was set for this month but Nielsen says it was set back, "because we didn't want people walking into a building that wasn't a 100 per cent."

While he admitted there was lots of "little things" to do around the rink, Nielsen felt everything left was substandard work and couldn't see any reason why they all couldn't be in the facility at the same time.

Once the arena is completed, Nielsen will be able to get on with some of his other work, such as budgets and park planning.

Little jobs left

With most of the major jobs completed, crews at Drayton Sports Centre are putting in long hours to have the facility ready by Oct. 15. On the left, a hole has been left in the wall to slide in this compressor unit.

Outdoor rink decision expected this week

The fate of minor hockey's outdoor rink will likely be decided at Thursday's town council meeting.

Recreation director Paul Nielsen says he has received a set of plans from minor hockey for their proposed rink, on the east side of the Drayton Sports Centre in West Valley Park. Minor hockey approached council earlier with plans to build the rink, however, the project was tabled.

They are hoping council will give them the green light Thursday so the rink can be built before the snow and cold weather arrives.

Minor hockey hopes to use the outdoor rink at least 22 hours per week.

Nielsen says it's a good idea and says it will take some pressure off the main arena.

Turkey trot Thursday

The fifth annual Frank Maddock high school turkey trot takes place on Thursday.

Organizer Rick Watrich says he expects more than 100 kids to show up for the four km run, which begins at 11:30 a.m. at the high school's front entrance.

Awards for the top finishers and draw prizes will be handed out following the event.

Watrich says he's hoping that, for a change, the run will be blessed with nice weather.

Dean Reynolds remembers an Alberta unlike the current one.

Years of hardship the best time

Senior of the Week

By Belinda Atkinson
A local hospital resident ages forgetful in a modern facility but his fondest memories go back to a youth of hardships.

Dean Reynolds 92, left Nova Scotia with his parents in 1900 for an Alberta far removed from our own.

He recalls with detail the isolation of their homestead west of where Ponoka is now. "You had to raise everything yourself," he said. "You couldn't just go to a store to buy things."

They did make occasional shopping trips to Lacombe — one after the thaw and one before the freeze.

These trips and an unreliable mail train were great sources of excitement and anticipation.

Reynolds explained the mail would work its way west via farmers. As if in a giant relay, each man would carry large sacks from his homestead to the next.

I remember seeing my parents drop everything when they saw it coming. We'd rummage through sometimes two or three men the mail."

Reynolds also recalls trying to steal flour sacks so his mother could make him a new shirt.

His world was a place to-day's youth couldn't imagine. A German colony had settled to the north. Swedish colonies were to the south and west, and the remainder of the province was Indian.

He recalls an historic celebration in Lacombe on St. Patrick's Day 1905 when Alberta became a province. "Some people travelled for two days to be there," he said.

At 28 years of age, Reynolds married a teacher. The two divorced after four years and two kids because they were both from "different backgrounds."

"I was only married once," he asserted. "That was enough."

He went on to work the fishing boats in B.C. during the Dirty Thirties. Fuel was hard to find so he and a buddy would coast out with the tide and return the same way.

"We'd walk down the streets of Vancouver at 2 a.m. trying to sell fish," he laughs. After six years, he returned to the Drayton Valley area where he got swept up in the oil business that, back then, was four or five wells.

Reynolds' lifetime is typical of the pioneer. He says there were great hard ships yet he can't help but describe them as the best times of his life.

Grade 8 student Sandi Smith is H.W. Pickup's new student president.

President wants to dance

H.W. Pickup's new student council president will be taping her toes if all goes as planned for this year.

"We want to try for a few more dances," says Sandi Smith. "Hopefully if we can make a good impression on the teachers we'll get them."

The Grade 8 student was recently elected to head a 14-member student council who, above all else, want more dances.

They'll also try to improve morale in the school so more students come to social functions.

"Some of the Grade 7s don't come to the events," she says.

Smith says there are a few other ideas that haven't been finalized yet, such as chocolate bar machines in the school.

Candy-bar machine a shoo-in

But under the direction of one of the few Grade 8s ever elected as president, the chocolate bar machine is a shoo-in.

Even though her presidency has just begun, Smith says it's been really exciting.

So much so, she says she'd like to continue student council involvement in high school.

The starry-eyed youngster also has some pretty big post-graduation plans.

"I want to become an astronaut," Smith says, explaining that she'd like the adventure.

For now, Smith's feet are firmly on the ground with an important mission — more dancing.

Earl Briscoe and John Eriksson

MD original seeks new challenge

By Steve Fletcher
Earl Briscoe says his management skills were stretched to the limit as the first and last administrator of ID 222.

The improvement district lasted six months, during which time Briscoe, an Edmonton area management consultant, was charged with the task of transforming the new municipality into the MD of Briscoe.

"I thought it was a terrific test of my knowledge and my abilities," said Briscoe who leaves his post as an advisor within the next few weeks.

Briscoe has five days left in his contract, which he will spend over the next two weeks.

He said he will provide MD manager John Eriksson with a summary report Oct. 12. Until then the Sherwood Park resident will complete any loose ends and finalize his files.

Briscoe arrived in Drayton Valley Jan. 4, 1988 following his appointment as interim administrator for the newly formed ID. A former municipal inspector with Alberta Municipal Affairs, Briscoe first became aware of the decades long debate over a Drayton Valley area municipality when it rose to a front burner issue" in early 1987.

He kept abreast of the controversial issue throughout that year, something that wasn't lost on the provincial government when it came time to appoint an interim ID manager.

"Basically, the reason I got to come here was through (regular) communications with the department," Briscoe said.

Briscoe was lauded by councillors at a recent MD meeting by pushing ahead and creating the municipality within six months instead of the prescribed 12, but he maintains it wasn't his idea.

The ID advisory council was the major catalyst in saving Briscoe. "I was only the facilitator. At I did was that I helped it to happen."

Briscoe said he has already initiated about future endeavors, which will probably focus on organizational concerns within the municipal sphere.

"I'll take probably a month off-and devote part of it to holiday time and part of it to developing materials for my next projects," he said.

"A good management consultant always plans ahead."

Westwind Motor Inn

Ted Miller and Those Rodeo Cowboys will be featured in Rodeo City from Oct. 3 to 8 starting at 9:30 p.m.

Cardium Theatre

Stealing Home starring Mark Harmon will be featured in the Cardium Theatre Oct. 5 to 7.

A Fish Called Wanda starring Jamie Lee Curtis will follow Oct. 8 to 14.

Clubs, organizations, teams, wherever, are urged to call me with their upcoming entertainment dates.

Correction

The outline under a garbage truck burns photo in the Sept. 13 issue stated the fire had started, when the truck scraped a guardrail coming over the weigh scale, puncturing the propane tank. However, it has come to our attention since, that it was a gas tank and not propane.

Mail box headache

Residents who pick up their mail from the green boxes west of Evergreen elementary school will likely be glad when the supermailboxes arrive. Now, they have to park well back of the boxes due to mud, water and deep ruts. The post office was to have the site gravelled, but that was never done.

Cluttered office a birthday surprise

The executive director of the Bivhoe Workshop has extra nerve to quietly celebrate his 40th birthday next year.

Bruce Nehols walked into his office Sept. 23 the day of his 39th to discover that it wasn't exactly in its usual tidy condition.

During the night, staff and clients at the workshop were busy cluttering the office with about 100 pop crates and 500 balloons.

Receptionist Michelle Newell joked that Nehols' initial reaction to the prank was to momentarily fire everyone involved.

The birthday surprise had been in the works for three months. The objective was simple. "We wanted to make his birthday a living hell," quipped Newell.

Fertilize this fall

In preparing the farmstead for winter, property owners shouldn't fertilize the lawn this fall, but they should make sure it is well watered before freeze-up, according to Alberta Agriculture.

Lawns need time to "harden off" before winter and fertilizing the soil could cause problems. The last application of fertilizer should be no later than about the middle of August.

If conditions are dry an occasional watering will be necessary to get moisture to the grass roots. If adequate rainfall isn't received, it is important to give the lawn a good watering just before freeze-up to ensure adequate moisture is available to roots when growth resumes next spring.

If grass keeps growing it doesn't hurt to continue mowing, although it shouldn't be clipped too short.

A good guideline is to maintain a growing height of four to five centimetres (1.5 to two inches).

Definition of shin splint complicated

By Dr. Bob Young
A shin splint is a) early Canadian paper money, b) a soccer injury, c) a leg cast.

None of the above, as any runner or jogger will tell you. Shin splints have been defined as "pain and discomfort in the leg from repetitive running on hard surfaces. The word leg, medically, is the area between the knee and the ankle."

Shin splint is a descriptive, not a diagnostic term. This means there may be one or more causes for the pain. Some doctors include pain from small fractures of the leg bone in the term shin splint, others do not.

Accepted causes include inflammation of tendons, myositis or inflamed muscles, irritation of the membrane covering the bone (the periosteum), and pressure pain due to muscles swelling within their sheaths.

Diagnosis can usually be

Medically Speaking

made by physical examination if a history of running is obtained. Ordinary x-rays are poor at finding small stress fractures but radioactive bone scans are extremely effective, and can also tell new fractures from old.

Occasionally an injection of local anesthetic is used to help diagnose shin splints.

Treatment will not work unless the patient rests the part. Ice packs for 10 or 15 minutes a few times a day are indicated, and anti-inflammatory drugs (but not cortisone) are often used.

When pain allows, rehabilitative local exercises are begun, under the direction of a physician or physiotherapist. Non-running aerobic exercise such as swimming and bike riding can be started to maintain fitness, and weight lifting is alright to a point.

Preventing shin splints, or their recurrence is a matter of training. A majority occur following a sudden increase in activity (length of runs) or intensity (speed).

Faulty biomechanics (abnormal body structure or incorrect use of muscle groups) may respond to intelligent training, and well-chosen quality running shoes may also serve to counteract mechanical and impact factors that lead to shin splints.

And yes, maybe shin splints can sometimes be a soccer injury!

(Medically Speaking is published with the cooperation of this newspaper and the Alberta Medical Association.)

Parents should check liability coverage

Parents considering the purchase of a motorized "toy" car or all terrain vehicle should check their insurance coverage and their potential liability.

These vehicles, although advertised for children aged two to seven, can carry a child at speeds of up to five miles per hour, and are capable of causing injury and property damage where liability claims may be significant, says Insurance Brokers' Association general manager Frank Easton.

"We strongly urge parents with one of these 'toys' to contact their insurance broker and ensure they have adequate liability protection," he adds.

Geraniums easy to store

Storing geraniums over winter doesn't mean continuing the gardening season indoors, says Alberta Agriculture horticulturist, Pam North.

The annual plants can be dug up and brought into the house before a heavy frost and kept with very little care until next spring. She says to place geraniums quite close together in a box or other container and cover the roots with peat moss or mixture of peat moss and vermiculite.

Cut the plants back so only branch stubs remain. It is best to store them in a cool, dark location where the temperature ranges from four to seven degrees Celsius.

The stored plants should be well watered when first brought into the house and then watered lightly every so often over winter to prevent the plants from shrivelling.

The soil should dry out completely between waterings.

In February the geraniums should be placed in individual containers with good potting soil and placed in a south facing sunny window.

Models of some original staff members anniversary celebration of the Breton drew a lot of laughs at the recent 25th General Hospital

Breton General celebrates long years of service

By Elizabeth Kugyelka and Marilyn Dunn

The first to supply medical needs in the Breton area were the district nurses

PA Chapman came in 1945, staying until her retirement in 1952. Helen Sablin, Betty Hillman and Margaret Faulkner were other district nurses. Should an emergency arise when the district nurse was away local resident, Dove McCartney, a registered nurse, was available for assistance.

In the late fifties oil was discovered in the Breton area. The population increased and residents felt there was a definite need for a doctor and, most importantly, a hospital. Before the government would consider this, one of the requirements was that a doctor establish a practice for at least two years.

Dr. James Hamilton Kays from Dublin, Ireland was the area's first doctor. Although he didn't quite complete the full two years, Dr. Hrabar came and fulfilled the requirement.

A provisional hospital board was appointed by the municipal district. This board was approved by the department of health and functioned until the hospital was completed and later replaced by elected members.

The appointees to the board were chairman, Sam Ruff, Warburg; Nick Kacush, Breton; Fred Greenough, Genesee; Herman Siegel, Buck Lake and J. Pootney.

Each centre of population

Suzanne Gero, first baby, and Ross Williams, first patient.

put forward its own qualifications as the most favorable site for the hospital in the newly-formed Hospital District 85. Breton was the geographical centre, had the largest urban population within the hospital district and was the only centre in the district offering all the modern facilities.

The announcement by then Minister of Health Dr. J. Danovon Ross Sept. 6, 1960 that Breton had been chosen as the site did not put an end to the controversy. There were public meetings, leaflets and letters to the editor either for or against the proposal.

On April 26, 1961 a plebiscite was held. The question "Are you in favor of the hospital scheme?" found 1,011 voted yes, 662 voted no. A majority of 60.43 per cent meant it was defeated. In 1961 a 66 2/3 per cent majority was required.

Area residents were not about to give up in their quest for a hospital. More meetings were held. A motion "to recommend to the minister of health to go ahead with a hospital in Breton Municipal District 85," was unanimously passed at a meeting held at Warburg July 17, 1961. The government agreed to proceed with a hospital at Breton.

On July 27, 1962 the land title to the subdivision of 5.92 acres belonging to Harry Huntley was obtained. Chief architect H.A. Anderson from the Department of Public Works estimated the proposed 30 1/3 bed facility to cost $303,000. The same plan was used for the Stony Plain, Bashaw, Milk River and Killam hospitals. Tenders for the Breton hospital were called Oct. 12 and Bird Construction Co. was awarded the contract.

Wednesday, Sept. 25, 1963 was a beautiful day for the official opening ceremonies with a large crowd and dignitaries present.

Dr. E.R. Dixon was the first resident doctor. The first patient admitted was Ross Williams of the Moose Hill district Sept. 30 - one day before the hospital was scheduled to receive patients. The first baby was born opening day, Oct. 1. Patricia Suzanne was born to Marlene and Maynard Jorgenson from the Carnwood district.

Other services have been developed to meet the needs of the clients including physiotherapy, diet counselling, the dietary department prepares the meals for the meals-on-wheels program, the former nurses residence is now the Medical Centre which provides office space for the two permanent physicians. A 24-hour ambulance service is based in Breton and care for the elderly is coordinated with the two local home care programs within the hospital district.

Karen Johnson cuts the anniversary cake.

During the past five years the Department of Hospitals and Medical Care has provided capital funding to replace and upgrade medical and physical plant equipment. Construction began this spring and is scheduled to be completed Nov 30.

The hospital board has requested approval to construct a 30-bed nursing home auxiliary unit to the east of the existing hospital. This facility would enable elderly people who require more care than the home care programs are able to provide, accommodation close to their families, friends and family physician.

Know your registration numbers

Consumer's Corner

By Samia Vallejo

How do you know if your tires are affected by a recall?

The over eight million tires annually installed on new vehicles are automatically registered with tire manufacturers by the automakers themselves. As long as your address hasn't changed, you'll be notified.

The problem comes with the nine-and-a-half million replacement tires sold every year. Only 18 per cent of those purchases are registered with the tire manufacturer. When you buy new tires, your dealer should give you a self-addressed card for each tire. You fill out your name and address, as well as the tire's registration number. The mechanic will need to give you that number as it is stamped on the sidewall that cannot be seen once the tire is installed.

While tire failures are often due to road conditions or driving technique, tires themselves can also be to blame. Between 1978 and 1980, for instance, 900,000 steel belted radials were recalled.

Make sure you have all the information you need to drive safely - insist on that registration card from your tire dealer.

Natural gas fireplace market on the rise

The Canadian market for natural gas fireplaces has increased in the past few years as consumers continue to want the convenience, appearance and comfort of a working fire but without the inconvenience of burning wood.

From a convenience viewpoint, natural gas fireplaces are hard to match. Units can be turned on and off at the flick of a switch and there's no need to haul, split or store wood. Since wood isn't being used, there's also no need to concern yourself with wood chips, bark, insects or ash in the home.

There's also the cost advantage. According to industry experts, most people can expect to spend 11 cents an hour on average to operate a natural gas fireplace, a fraction of what it costs to run a wood-burning unit. Chimney construction and cleaning costs are also saved and no extra premium is required on home insurance policies.

Natural gas fireplace heaters have two additional advantages over heating with wood. They are significantly more efficient and, with firing rates and thermostatic control, they can provide much more even heating. Overheating commonly associated with wood-burning stoves can thus be eliminated.

There are basically three different types of natural gas devices available: firelogs, fireplace heaters and direct vent fireplaces.

In the case of direct-vent fireplaces, some models vent through an exterior wall without the need for a vertical chimney. They can also vent from any floor opening, making them ideal for apartment and condominium buildings.

Gas firelogs are designed primarily for their decorative effect and are installed in existing open fireplaces. Advantages to the homeowner include their relatively low installed cost and compact vent space requirements. The space heating effect is essentially the same as for a wood fire except gas firelogs are more consistent and can usually have their flame size adjusted.

With gas fireplace heaters, furnace-type heat exchangers are used to heat room air with or without blowers. Some have radiant firebricks to supply heat out the front for hard-to-heat areas such as basements.

Interagency presents... suicide awareness

Unmasking the myth

Awareness for Health

"He isn't the type to kill himself"

"People who talk about suicide don't really do it"

They say she attempted suicide, but she was just trying to get attention, if nobody makes a big fuss over it she won't do it again

Calling attention to suicide just encourages people to do it. The best thing is to ignore it

These statements have three things in common: they are heard very often; they are widely believed; and they are wrong. Fatally wrong

As a result, many people die, people who might have been saved if someone near to them knew the facts about suicide, recognized the signs of danger and took appropriate action

If you are like most people, almost everything you ever heard about suicide is false. First and foremost, there is no suicide "type". People of all kinds and from all ages. But he wasn't the type" is a statement commonly heard after a suicide

It is a statement by someone who believes a person has to appear abnormal or "mentally ill" to commit suicide or has to come from a certain kind of family or segment of society

The truth is if the signs of suicide are there, so is the danger, regardless of what "type" of person it is. The most important rule of suicide prevention is never overlook the danger signs, never assume the person is not the "type". Attention to this one rule alone would save many lives

Suicide threats or other statements that reveal a desire or intention to die are often ignored because people believe those who are serious about ending their lives keep it to themselves. This is not

People planning to commit suicide often tell others about their plans or about the way they feel. Such statements may be vague such as a hint, a joke about death, or vague complaints to their doctor. Most people who are contemplating suicide are torn between a desire to live and desire to die. Therefore, they try to let others know about it, hoping someone will help them. Whether it is a frank statement or a subtle hint, it is an important sign. It should not be ignored

Suicide attempts often don't appear to be very serious, taking pills when he or she is sure to be discovered, or injuring oneself in a way not likely to be lethal. When an attempt of this kind is made it is very easy for people to ignore it or to pass it off lightly

People often refer to a suicide attempt of this kind as a bid for attention, and there is an element of truth in that. It is a cry for help. And if it is not answered, another more serious attempt is likely to follow. A suicide attempt, no matter how harmless or frivolous it seems should never be dismissed as insignificant

Suicide claimed 368 lives in Alberta in 1985 and is among the nation's 10 leading causes of death. It is common in virtually all segments of society - young and old, male and female, rich and poor, black and white. In fact, the numbers of deaths is only part of the problem. Add to it about eight times as many suicide attempts and a true picture of the massive problem of suicide emerges

Next week The danger signs

Open public lecture by Dr. Ben Dyck, provincial suicidologist, Tuesday, Oct. 11, 7:30 p.m. at the Frank Maddock high school amphitheatre. For more information contact Mental Health Services, 542-3140 or the health unit at 542-4415

MLA Report

Employment opportunity through government grants

By Shirley Cripps
MLA Drayton Valley

The AMPLE grant, a benefit paid to the municipal governments, has more than doubled for 1988 because of interest rate reduction under the Municipal Finance Corporation. This year's grants for the Drayton Valley constituency total $409,154.

AMPLE is an unconditional provincial grant to cities, towns, villages, summer villages, counties, municipal districts, improvement districts, special areas and Métis settlements to foster local employment through local projects.

Municipalities can identify their own priorities and use the funds accordingly. Ideally, these priorities will not only improve local facilities and services, but provide much needed employment opportunities for Albertans.

The priority employment program (PEP), which provides wage subsidies to non-profit organizations, publicly funded agencies and organizations, municipalities, provincial government departments, Indian bands and Métis settlements, will operate from Nov. 1 to March 31 with an approved budget of $10 million. The program is expected to create 2000 new jobs.

Under the community employment element of the program, employers are reimbursed for the wages of employees they hire at a rate of $4.50 an hour plus 10 per cent for employee benefits for each employee.

Through its 17 years of operation, PEP has provided thousands of Albertans with valuable work experience and career development opportunities.

Applications for PEP funding will be reviewed on a first come, first-served basis, with priority given to applications received on or before Oct. 31. For further information call Career Development and Employment in Edmonton, 427-4740 or call toll free Zenith 22078.

It can be reached through my Edmonton office during the week at 422-9156 or toll-free through Zenith 22333. My Drayton Valley constituency office is open Mondays through Thursdays, 542-3355. My residence phone number is 682-3758.

The Drayton Valley paper-recycling project is now under way. Residents are urged to bundle their paper and transport it to the recycling bin behind the Beehive workshop.

Around the Province

Gun club shot up
Officials of the Wabamun Gun Club are up in arms. All the work they did this year, went down the drain when vandals shot up their sign, facilities and left a trail of broken glass. RCMP in Stony Plain are investigating the incident.

Tax hike
City businesses in St. Albert could end up paying more municipal taxes next year. If council decides businesses should pay for the operating deficit of a Business Development Centre, it will mean an extra tax burden.

Community welcomes Thao Dam

By Rhelli Carson

Breton high school has been treated to a new experience this year.

Fifteen year-old Thao Dam arrived in Canada from Thailand in June. She had been living in Thailand in a refugee camp with 200 other teenagers, all unaccompanied minors, meaning none of them had family with them.

In Thailand Dam studied English every morning with an American teacher who also taught her American customs. She also studied English in Vietnam, and is quite fluent.

Dam is under the permanent guardianship of Eileen and Bob Harris, who are expecting the arrival of a 16-year-old girl from Laos, in October.

The Harises learned about the unaccompanied minors program through a World Vision newsletter. They then contacted the UN in Ottawa and the Edmonton Immigration office processed the application.

Breton high school staff and teachers are looking forward to learning a great deal from both girls.

Breton

The Breton elementary school bicycle rodeo grand champion trophy is now on display outside the library. The 1988 winner is Kyle Johnson, whose name is inscribed on the trophy.

There will be a school safety program starting this fall. The program will be composed of classroom discussions and a series of school-wide drills. Each instructional area will have an evacuation map posted at each door.

Card parties have again started in the community. Breton and Golden Age club held their cribbage party Sept. 20. Men's high, Allen Fenneman, men's low, Virgil Platz.

ladies' high, Dorothy Buchanan, ladies' low, Catherine Moorehouse.

Punnett Society card parties will start tomorrow (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. at the Punnett Centre. Ladies are asked to bring lunch. These parties will be held the first and third Wednesday of each month until the end of April.

Warburg figure skating club registrations will be held tonight (Tuesday) at the Warburg arena from 7 to 9 p.m. Contact Deb Geiger at 888-8888.

Warburg Minor Hockey registrations will also be held tonight (Tuesday) from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Warburg arena.

Breton United Church Sunday school started Sept. 18 for ages three and older. School starts at 11 a.m.

Are you a winner in game of life?

The past few days the world has turned all eyes toward Seoul, Korea and the Olympic Games.

What a struggle to perform almost beyond human limits! One boxer, after losing the decision, sat for an hour in silence and in troubled thought. We say, "Hey, it is only a game, but it was his life's game."

A chance in a lifetime. Oh, yes, it was only a game but oh, the games people play. Are you a winner? Life is likened to a game, only God knows the score.

Christ came to earth and give His life as our coach. He died on the cross so you and I could be winners. Are we taking life easy, living a very loose lifestyle, or are we daily preparing ourselves for that final race? We're not running for bronze, or silver, nor, not even gold, but we do want to hear those words "Well done, my good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of the Lord."

Paul, writing in 1 Cor 9:24

From the Pastor's pen

By Pastor Donald Sackl
DV Church of God

5: "Know ye not that they which run in a race run all, but one receiveth the prize? So run, that ye may obtain. And every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things. Now they do it to obtain a corruptible crown; but we an incorruptible. Phil. 3:13-4 Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended but this one thing I do, forgetting these things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press towards the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

T.L.B. reads: No, dear brothers, I am still not all I should be but I am bringing all my energies to bear on this one thing, forgetting the past and looking forward to what lies ahead. I strain to reach the end of the race and receive the prize for which God is calling us into heaven because of what Jesus Christ did for us.

Why, oh why, be content to settle for less than the prize of the high calling in Christ Jesus? Peter 3:9: The Lord is not slack concerning His promise as some men count slackness; but is long-suffering to us word, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance."

In the race of life we must let God set the rules. This Bible is excellent in spelling out the course we must take. Jesus said, "I am the Way, the Truth and the Life."

Let us go for God instead of the gold and prove to be a real winner.

More to parenting than I thought

By Chris Kreiser

Silence suddenly descends and two pairs of eyes look at me expectantly.

Mommy, that's the third time you told Rebecca that. And you said if you have to say something three times you're going to blow up.

They sit there staring at me, expectantly - will she or won't she?

This happens at breakfast. What will the rest of the day be like?

Parenting. It's at moments like this I realize there's more to it than I had thought. And for the zillionth time I feel unprepared for this life's challenge. If the kids would just listen it would be so much easier.

This morning's conversation had started out well enough. Outside we had our first frost so when I saw how Rebecca had dressed I was surprised.

"Oh, Rebecca, it's so cold outside. How can you be wearing shorts?"

"I'm not cold, Mommy."

"Rebecca, you go get some clothes on. You're making me cold just looking at you."

She tried to protest, "But, Mom I'm NOT cold!" I would have none of it. "GO! You'll get a cold if you don't dress warmer."

Rebecca (starting to cry): "Mommy, I'm not cold, I'm hot."

"NOW! And I don't want to hear another word from you."

Coffee
with Chris

She then left the room to go get dressed warmer. Confident I had done the best thing for her I was confronted with Ryan's observation about my three-chances warning. Just as I was trying to explain that I wasn't going to blow up literally, Rebecca reappears dressed in her jogging outfit.

With tear-filled eyes she tells me, matter-of-factly, "Okay, fine, Mommy. You want me to sweat. I'll sweat."

Standing there looking down at her earnest little face I realize perhaps it's not the kids who aren't listening. It's me. She had told me three times she wasn't cold. I should have given her a little more credit. She's more than capable of deciding herself when to dress warmer.

Just maybe the first step to good parenting is my learning to listen.

Asthma Week Oct. 3-9

Asthma is the focus of this year's Lungs are For Life Week which runs from Oct. 3 to 9. The week was created by the Alberta Lung Association (ALA) to focus attention on lung health hazards and lung diseases.

"More than 30,000 Americans suffer with asthma," says John Price, president of AIA, "but it remains a disease where a lot of questions regarding cause and treatment are still unanswered. Through research and education we hope to discover the answers to some of these questions and improve the quality of life of all asthma sufferers."

As part of Asthma Week informational kits have been sent to occupational health nurses and other health professionals throughout Alberta to help them create an awareness of asthma and to inform them of the resource materials available through the AIA.

This past year the AIA has invested about $40,000 on ashing research in Alberta.

The Alberta Lung Association is a registered non-profit charity which receives no government funding and is not part of the United Way. The annual Christmas Seal campaign funds their many educational programs, research projects and community services.

Beware of vehicle corrosion

Assuming your new car is already protected against corrosion when you buy it can be a costly mistake.

The corrosion warranties offered by automakers are not what they seem to be at first glance. The automakers have tried to spur increased sales with these warranties, but consumers should be aware of what they don't cover.

The interior areas of a car most vulnerable to rust are not visible to consumers without special inspection equipment. Rust will quickly find a vehicle's weak spots.

overlapping seams, spot welds, hood and trunk inner panels, brake and fuel lines, and floor sheet metal - and start there first.

What you don't see can hurt your car since rust begins its destruction from the inside out. And these interior areas of automobiles are not protected by the manufacturers' corrosion warranties.

With the onslaught of winter and the millions of tons of corrosive rock salt dumped on roads, consumers should protect their cars with after-market should look for a reputable company with a proven track record.

An engineered system of rust protection works the best. This means the technician who works on the car should have access to engineering specifications for each make and model of car—both domestics and imports. Then he can pinpoint and access critical areas with the appropriate tools. (The typical fogging technique used by many car dealerships results in thin, uneven coverage of rust protection material).

Albertans now have some of the world's best science to help in making decisions.

Five years ago, undertaking a major initiative, the Acid Deposition Research Program launched a $5.3 million study to determine whether acid rain is having an impact on Alberta's crops, soils and waters. This study is now complete.

The scientists concluded that regional scale impacts of acid rain in Alberta are not demonstrated today, and likely absent. They have however cautioned that greater industrialization will increase the risks associated with pollution in parts of the province they have identified as sensitive.

This research has been rated as one of the most comprehensive studies of air pollution in the world. The rating comes from an independent Science Advisory Board composed of air pollution specialists who oversaw and evaluated all aspects of the study for its scientific merit.

Today, as a result of this study, Albertans can have the satisfaction of having at our disposal a broader, sounder scientific base of knowledge, which will help us to determine the policies that govern our environment.

'Learn to do by doing' motto of 4-H clubs

By Janet Carlson
Regional 4-H Specialist
"Mom, can I join?" How many times do you hear this question every fall, as sports, and recreation programs start up and advertise through the schools, trying to recruit new young faces? Well, I hope some are coming home these days asking "Mom, can I join 4-H?"

If your child asks you this question, do you know what your answer would be inside from "Go ask your father?" Here are some steps to help you make the decision.

1. If your child is 10 or will be 10 by Jan. 1, they are old enough to be a registered member (also not older than 21 by Jan. 1).

2. Contact your district home economist to find out where the nearest club is to you and what project(s) the club offers.

3. Contact the club leader and find out when meetings take place and what some of the expectations may be.

4-H News

4. Discover there is a very minimal cost to becoming a 4-H member (Books are supplied, but materials need to be obtained).

These are four steps to follow to help you decide if it is possible for your child to join 4-H.

But you may still wonder what's in it for your child? What's in it for you? The 4-H leaders manual states:

4-H focuses on the development of the individual to become a well-balanced and responsible member of society. This is accomplished primarily through the completion of projects. Each member chooses a project and is responsible to complete it. Throughout the project year, members learn how to make decisions, the value of planning, and how to keep records. 4-H is an action program where members learn to do by doing.

Clubs stimulate members to appreciate others through working and learning together.

Pinkeye can be problem anytime

Although infectious pinkeye in cattle is usually worse during the warm summer months, an Alberta Agriculture veterinarian says it can be a problem at any time of the year.

This disease, which may result in severe eye irritation and production losses, does not have a single cause. And there is no sure fire way to prevent it either.

However, Dr. Casey Schipper, beef cattle veterinarian, says producers should take steps to eliminate factors which spread the disease. He says early detection and treatment will reduce production losses.

Pinkeye can affect the eyes of beef or dairy cattle at any age, although range calves and feedlot cattle are the most frequent victims.

The infection rarely results in death, although severely affected cattle, suffering pain, will lose both appetite and body condition. Herd outbreaks have been reported which have lasted from three to four weeks and in which 80 per cent of the animals have been involved.

Schipper says because there are different environmental factors as well as different kinds of bacteria, viruses and even worm parasites of the eye which appear to play a role in herd outbreaks, it is hard to pinpoint

He says some recent work has shown that infected carrier animals may be a source of infection. A carrier is an animal that may or may not have suffered from pinkeye in the past and shows no outward signs of the disease.

Other factors which contribute to the spread of pinkeye include ultraviolet light from the sun, a lack of pigmentation of the eyelids, prominence of eyes, fly population, age (calves are more susceptible than older cattle), and other eye irritants such as dusty conditions, tall grasses and rough forages.
